CAUTION EXTRA

A man by the name of S P Townsend has been in the habit of putting up a worthless article of Sarsaparilla, which they call Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, denominating it GENUINE. Original etc. This Townsend is no doctor, and never was, but was formerly a worker on railroads, canals, and the like. Yet he assumes the title of Dr. for the purpose of gaining a livelihood. It is to caution the public against this imposition, and purchasers none but the GENUINE OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND'S Sarsaparilla, having on it the Old Doctor's likeness, his family coat of arms, and his signature across the coat of arms.

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY

Genuine Townsend Sarsaparilla

Old Dr. Townsend is now about [illegible] of age, and has long been known as the AUTHOR AND PROPRIETOR OF VARIOUS OTHER VALUABLE MEDICINES. Being compelled to hunt its mountains by [illegible] has been kept out of market, and the sales of these only which had proved its worth. And [illegible] Yet he reaches the cure of many, nevertheless, as those persons who had been healed [illegible] and saved from death, proclaimed its excellence and wonderful

HEALING POWER.

Knowing many years ago that he had by his skill, science and experience devised an article which would be of incalculable advantage to mankind when the means would be found to bring it into notice, and when its inestimable virtues would be known and appreciated. This time has come, the means are supplied, this GENUINE UNADULTERATED PREPARATION is manufactured on the largest scale, and is called for through all the length and breadth of the land, especial as it is found time and time again of departed or dying hope.

Unlike young S P Townsend's, it improves with age, and never changes, but for the better, because it is prepared on scientific principles by a skilful man. The highest knowledge of Chemistry and the best of Medicines are thus brought into the manufacture of the Old Dr's Sarsaparilla. The Sarsaparilla root, as well known to medical men, contains many medicinal properties and virtues, which are not known and others, which are found in preparing it for use, produce fermentation and acid, which is injurious to the system. Some of the properties of Sarsaparilla are so volatile, they cannot be evaporated and are lost in the preparation. These are not preserved by a scientific process known only to the experienced in its manufacture. Many other medicinal properties which give it its virtues as an alterative, or blood purifier, which give it its virtues as a remedy for Coughs and Colds, are the very essential medical properties of this root, which give it its virtues.

Any person can boil a stick of root till they get a dark colored liquid, which is as far from the coloring matter in the root, as from a stick of dye, they can then strain this liquid or vapid liquid, or extract, pour molasses and then call it SARSAPARILLA EXTRACT or SYRUP. But such is not the article known as the

GENUINE OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA

This is properly that part of the Sarsaparilla root, that is the most valuable, and contains the most of the properties of the root, and yet it is so prepared as to be free from all those properties which are found to be injurious to the system, and yet so combined as to retain all the medicinal virtues of the root, and yet so combined as to be free from all those properties which are found to be injurious to the system, and yet so combined as to be free from all those properties which are found to be injurious to the system, and yet so combined as to be free from all those properties which are found to be injurious to the system

Death of Major Charles G. Bryant.

The Texas correspondent of the New York Herald, under date of Corpus Christi, Jan. 20, gives an account of the death of Major Charles G. Bryant, formerly of this city, but for some years past a citizen of Texas. We received, a few weeks since, a letter from Major Bryant, stating that he expected, during the coming season, to visit Maine, and grasp his old friends by the hand. He evidently felt how much he had lost in social advantages in going to that now land. But he was patriotic; had a marked love of military tactics; and a fondness for the stirring scenes of the camp. He has several sisters in this city and vicinity, to whom he was greatly attached, and upon whom the news of his sudden death falls with great weight.

The following is the account alluded to:

One of those atrocious and cold blooded murders so frequent in this part of Western Texas, was perpetrated on Saturday, the 12th inst., about 8 o'clock in the morning, by a party of marauding Lipan Indians, with the most provoking impunity. Maj. Chas. G. Bryant, one of our citizens, was barbarously murdered, near to and in the sight of Mr. Wood's rancho, which is situated on the river called the Chocolate, about five miles from the coast, twenty-five from Corpus Christi, on the high road to Victoria, and within ten miles of the Mission del Refugio.

Major Bryant was from the State of Maine; he immigrated to this country at an early period, and took an active part and distinguished himself in her struggles for independence and freedom, and at the time of his assassination he was acting as commissary for the company of Rangers, ordered out by the Governor of this State in June last, and was on his way to Austin with the account of the same, when he met his unhappy fate. He was a man highly esteemed, and a man of ability, energy and general business habits; his untimely and foul end is a serious loss to our community in general. He was a good neighbor and a worthy citizen, and is by all of us sincerely lamented and will be much missed. This unfortunate man has left a wife and seven children to lament his untoward fate, who doubtless will have too much cause, in the bitterness of their anguish and the world's coldness, to curse the barbarous savages who thus wantonly deprived them of their legitimate protection and real support. The information given by a Mr. Welder, who lives near Wood's rancho, upon this act of cruelty, is, that the Indians were disguised in the habiliments of Mexicans and Americans, which doubtless threw poor Bryant off his guard and caused him to allow them to approach him, as they seemed to have done, without resistance or the slightest demonstration, for his arms were still on his saddle and he was speared both in the back and breast. The Indians stripped him entirely, and left him like a dog, where he fell wallowing in his gore, in sight of Mr. Wood's people at the rancho, who saw him fall, but could render him no assistance, the Indians being too numerous for their small band of three. After the barbarous act was completed, the Indians caught Bryant's horse, which through fright had ran off some distance, gathered up the clothes they had stripped off the corpse, and carried every thing away with them except his hat and an empty purse, which were found near the body; they also drove off about fifty horses belonging to Messrs. Wood and Welder, as much at their leisure as if driving off their own property; and one Indian had the hydacity to return after they had gone some distance, and drove off with the utmost confidence some ten or twelve horses more which had been left behind. All this was done in sight of Mr. Welder, one of the owners of the horses, who could not really prevent the occurrence, being obliged to remain at the rancho to defend it in case of necessity. There is no doubt entertained about those barbarians being Lipan Indians, who, when they come down to the Gulf coast, crossed the river Frio near its junction with the Nueces river, and passed within a mile and a half of the Sulphur springs and thence down the north bank of the Aransaso by an old Indian trail, and proceeded quite down to Black Point, which is on the edge of the Aransaso Bay, where they stole some horses on the night of the 11th inst. After killing B., the infidels returned with their plunder by exactly the same route they had come, with the greatest nonchalance and confiding security. However, the last news is, that Capt. Grumbles, (commandant of a company of Rangers stationed on the Nueces river, about 60 miles from Corpus Christi) with some 20 men of his company, are upon their trail, in close pursuit, and fully resolved to follow them, even to the Rocky Mountains should they not overtake them before. Capt. Grumbles is a man of energy, and his men are well mounted, and very efficient; therefore great hopes are entertained of success, although it is generally believed that the wily imps of crime will escape, through their superior knowledge of the country, and the start (about 24 hours) they have of Grumble and his little band, together with their having plenty of fresh and good horses with them to remount, whilst Grumbles and party are reduced to follow always on the same horses they set out upon.

MR CALHOUN. The Washington correspondent of the N Y Journal of Commerce says:—'Mr Calhoun says he feels able to address the Senate now, but will defer it for two or three days. He says he will reply to no one. He wishes to express his views on the state of the vexed question. Some Senators called on him to say that the Senate would cheerfully agree to give him any particular time that he might suggest for the purpose of speaking. He will accordingly fix a day. He will not speak more than two hours, if so long. He stated to gentlemen just now, that he was satisfied that the Southern people were moving ahead of their political leaders, on this question.'

☞ The Boston Atlas states that a very great excitement was caused in Methuen and Lawrence, Sunday, on the discovery of the murdered remains of a young woman named Adams, sewed up in some old bagging. The body was found in Methuen, on the Lowell road, about three miles from Lawrence, and exhibited the appearance of having been dead two or three days. The face showed severe bruises, and the skull was fractured and crushed in a terrible manner. No marks of violence were found on other parts of the body. The deceased had been employed in one of the factories at Lawrence.

☞ The British brig Minerva, from Halifax for New York stranded on Fire Island. The cargo was washed overboard, at blowing a tremendous gale at the time and our lives were lost. The brig was insured in New York and the cargo in Halifax.

☞ At New Orleans Feb. 7th the ship Russia, for San Francisco with a full cargo of provisions, took fire at the Levee and was entirely consumed.

A rencontre took place at Washington on Friday evening, between Fitz Henry Warren, Second Assistant Postmaster General, and the Hon Mr. Levin, representative from Pennsylvania. Mr. Levin applied an opprobrious epithet to Mr. Warren and received a blow in return.—Mr. Warren was following up the assault, when the parties were separated.

☞ A flat boat, laden with cotton raised by the Creek Indians on North Fork, arrived at Van Buren, Arkansas, a few days since. It is equal to the staple raised in the State, and commands the same price. The Creeks are industrious farmers and will hereafter increase this branch of their labor.

☞ It is said that there is little hope of the recovery of Mrs. Col. Fremont, who is detained at Panama by illness. She received a severe injury from a fall on the passage from San Francisco.

A despatch from Toronto, dated 11th, states that the anti-annexationists have delegated Mr. Cameron, late member of the government, to proceed to Washington, and use his influence in favor of the reciprocity bill.

Jenny Lind, the great Swedish vocalist, is positively coming to the United States. The indefatigable Barnum has succeeded in concluding an engagement with her, and the contract is printed in the English papers.

☞ E. L. Hamlin, Esq. will deliver a lecture, on this evening, before the Mechanics' Association.

☞ Gerrit Smith, Esq. of New York has given away fifty thousand dollars to furnish homes to the poor.

☞ It is believed that Col. Fremont, Senator-elect from California, is politically what is termed a "Taylor Democrat."

A correspondent of the Journal of Commerce, in speaking of the great fire at San Francisco, says:

'At one time, all hope of saving any part of the city was given up by every one. As it was it burnt gambling houses, hotels, restaurants, offices, stores, tents, dwelling-houses, bowling-alleys, store-sheds and lumber-yards. It rained and blew a gale for three weeks up to the time of the fire. That morning was the most calm and pleasant once vable. The next day it again commenced to rain and blow. It was one of the most remarkable instances ever witnessed, of the visitation of the Almighty, sweeping as it did, the principal and most notorious, as well as the first Gambling establishments, where night and day, Sundays and week days, openly unblushingly, did they violate the laws both of God and man. Many have been ruined by the fire, and get the re-building commenced the very morning after it occurred.

LOWER EMIGRANTS TO CALIFORNIA. The California fever still continues to rage in this vicinity. We are told that there are seventy individuals in this city alone, who have purchased, through our express men, tickets for a passage by the two next steamers from New York for Chagres, and thence over the Isthmus to Panama, and up the Pacific coast to San Francisco. We have published the names of about all the passengers who have sailed from this State within the last year, and we are certain that the county of Middlesex has furnished more than her proportion. Full one-third of the whole number have been from this county, and we may add, that the city of Lowell has sent out more than her proportion. We should say that from three to four hundred must have left this city alone, for the gold region, by different routes.—Lowell Jour.

GOV. CRITTENDEN IN DIFFICULTY. The people of Madison county, Kentucky, has presented to the Governor an immense bullock, weighing two thousand pounds. In his letter acknowledging the compliment, the Governor says:

'I can hardly imagine how I am ever to get so much beef consumed; and in this difficulty, I wish it to be certainly understood, that I consider you, under especial obligations to come to my house and assist in eating it.'

SPEECH OF MR. CLAY ON THE SLAVERY QUESTION.

Such, Mr President, is the series of resolutions which, in an earnest and anxious desire to present the olive branch to both parts of this distracted, and at the present moment unhappy country, I have thought it my duty to offer.—Of all men upon earth I am the least attached to any productions of my own mind. No man upon earth is more ready than I am to surrender any thing which I have proposed, and to accept in lieu of it any thing that is better, and I put it to the candor of honorable Senators on the other side and upon all sides of the House, whether their duty will be performed by simply limiting themselves to objections to any one or to all of the series of resolutions that I have offered. If my plan of peace, and accommodation, and harmony, is not right, present us your plan. Let us see the counter projet. Let us see how all the questions that have arisen out of this unhappy subject of slavery can be better settled, more fairly and justly settled to all quarters of the Union, than on the plan proposed, in the resolutions which I have offered. Present me such a scheme, and I will hail it with pleasure, and will accept it without the slightest feeling of regret that my own was abandoned. Sir, whilst I was engaged in anxious consideration upon this subject, the idea of the Missouri compromise, as it has been termed came in for my review, was considered by me, and I have rejected, as in my judgment less worthy of the common acceptance of both parts of this Union than the project which I have offered for your consideration.

Before I enter into a particular examination, however, of that Missouri compromise, I beg to be allowed to correct a great error which is prevailing, not merely in this Senate but throughout the whole country, in respect to my agency in the Missouri compromise. Or rather in respect to the line of 36 deg 30 min, which was established in 1820 by an act of Congress. I do not know whether any thing has excited more surprise in my mind, as to the rapidity with which important historical transactions are obliterated and pass from the mind, than when I understood every where that I had been the author of the line of 36 deg 30 min, which was established upon the occasion of the admission of Missouri into the Union. It would take too much time to go over the whole of that important era in the public affairs of the country I shall not do it, although I have got ample materials before me, derived from a careful examination of the journals of both Houses. I will not bedeapy your time by going in detail through the whole transaction, but I will content myself with stating that so far from my having presented as a proposition this line of 36 deg. 30 min., upon the occasion of the consideration whether Missouri should be admitted into the Union or not, it did not originate in the House of which I was a member. It originated in this body, as those who will cast their recollection back, and I am sure the honorable Senator from Missouri (Mr Benton) more correctly than any body else, must bring to his recollection the fact that at the Congress when the proposition was first made to admit Missouri—or rather to allow her to hold a convention, and frame a constitution, and decide whether she should or should not be admitted into the Union—the bill failed by a disagreement between the two Houses, the house insisting on and the Senate dissenting from the provisions contained in the ordinance of 1787. The House insisting on the interdiction of slavery, and the Senate rejecting the proposition of the interdiction of slavery, the bill fell through; it did not pass at that session of Congress.

At the next session it was renewed; and, at the time of its renewal, Maine was knocking at our door, also, to be admitted into the Union. In the House there was a majority for a restriction of the admission of slavery; in the Senate a majority was opposed to any such restriction. In the Senate, therefore, in order to carry through Missouri, a bill or provision for her admission or rather authorizing her to determine the question of her admission, was coupled with the bill for the admission of Maine.—They were connected together, and the Senate said to the House, You want the bill for the admission of Maine passed; you shall not have it, unless you take along with it the bill for the admission of Missouri also. There was a majority—not a very large one but a very firm and decided majority—in the Senate for coupling them together. Well, sir, the bill went through all the usual stages of disagreement, and of committees of conference; for there were two committees of conference upon the occasion before the matter was finally settled. It was finally settled to disconnect the two bills; to admit Maine separately, without any connection to Missouri, and to insert in the Missouri bill a clause which was inserted in the Senate of the United States—a clause which was proposed by Mr Thomas, of Illinois, in the Senate, restricting the admission of slavery north of 36 deg. 30 min., and leaving the question open south of 36 deg. 30 min., either to admit or not to admit slavery. The bill was finally passed. The committees of conference of the two houses recommended the detachment of the two bills, and the passage of the Missouri bill, with the clause of 36 deg. 30 min. in it. So it passed. So it went to Missouri. So, for a moment, it quieted the country. But the clause of 36 deg. 30 min., I repeat, you will find, sir, if you will take the trouble to look in the journals, was, upon three or four different occasions, offered. Mr Thomas acting in every instance, presented the proposition of 36 deg. 30 min.; and it was finally agreed to. But I take the occasion to say, that among those who agreed to that line were a majority of southern members. My friend from Alabama, in the Senate, [Mr King,] Mr Pinckney, from Maryland, and a majority of the southern senators, in this body, voted in favor of the line of 36 deg. 30 min.; and a majority of the southern members of the other House, at the head of whom was Mr Lowndes himself, voted also for that line. I have no doubt that I did also; but, as I was Speaker of the House, and as the journal does not show which way the Speaker votes, except in the cases of a tie, I am unable to tell, with certainty, how I actually did vote; but I have no earthly doubt that I voted, in common with my other southern friends, for the adoption of the line of 36 deg. 30 min.

So the matter ended in 1820. During that year Missouri held a convention, adopted a constitution, sent her constitution by her representatives to Congress, to be admitted into the Union; but she had inadvertently inserted into that constitution a provision to prevent the migration of free people of color into that State. She came here with the constitution containing that provision; and immediately northern members took exception to it. The flame which had been repressed at the previous session now burst out with redoubled force and violence throughout the whole Union. Legislative bodies all got in motion to keep out Missouri from the Union, in consequence of her interdict on of the admission of free people of color within her limits.

I did not arrive at Washington at that session until January; and when I got here, I found both bodies completely paralyzed by the excitement which had been produced in the struggle to admit or exclude Missouri from the Union, in consequence of the prohibition.—Well, sir, I made an effort, first, in the House of Representatives, to settle it. I asked for a committee of thirteen, and a committee of thirteen was granted to me, representing all the old States of the Union. That committee met. I presented to that committee a resolution, which was adopted by it and reported to the House, not unlike the one to which I will presently call the attention of the Senate. We should have carried it through the House but for the votes of Mr. Randolph of Virginia, Mr. Edwards, of North Carolina, and Mr. Burton, of North Carolina—two, I think, of the three no longer living. Those three southern votes were all cast against the compromise proposed to the committee of thirteen by myself, as chairman of that committee, and they defeated it.

In that manner things held for several days. The greatest anxiety prevailed. The country was unsettled: men were unhappy. There was a large majority in the House then—as I hope and trust there is now a large majority in Congress—in favor of the equitable accommodation and settlement of the question. I could have my collateral question passed which I pleased, except that when it came to the vote, by yeas and nays, unfortunately—more unfortunately then than now, I hope, should there be occasion for it—there were but few Curtiuses and Leonidases, ready to risk themselves for the safety and honor of the country. But I endeavored to avail myself, as much as I could, of the good feeling that prevailed; and after some days had elapsed, I brought forward another proposition, and a new one, perfectly unpredicated upon in the country, before or since, so far as I know. I proposed a joint committee of the two houses; that of the House consisted of 23 members; that of the Senate of—I do not recollect precisely how many, but of a proper number to meet the committee of the House; and that this committee be appointed by ballot. At that time Mr. Taylor, of New York was in the chair; and Mr. Taylor had been the very man who had first proposed the restriction upon Missouri that she should only be admitted under the provisions of the ordinance of 1787. I proposed, therefore, that the committee should be chosen by ballot. Well, sir, my motion was carried by a large majority, and members came to me from all quarters of the House asking—who, Mr. Clay, do you want to serve with you upon that committee? I made out my list of twenty-three members, and I venture to say that there happened upon that occasion what would hardly happen again, eighteen of the twenty-three were elected upon the first ballot, and the remaining five, having the largest number of votes, but not a majority, were the five upon my list. I moved to dispense with further balloting, and to take those five gentlemen who had received the greatest number of votes, with the eighteen actually elected, to compose the committee of twenty-three. One or two gentlemen—Mr. Livermore, of New Hampshire, and one or two other gentlemen—declined, and very much to my regret, and somewhat to my annoyance, the lamented Mr. Randolph and one other gentleman were placed in their situation. I forget whether this was done by ballot or by the Speaker. The Senate immediately agreed to the proposition and appointed its committee.

We met. It was in this hall upon the Sabbath day, within two or three days of the close of the session, when the whole nation was listening with breathless anxiety for some final and healing measure upon that distracted subject. We met here, and upon that day. The moment we met, Mr. Randolph made a suggestion which I knew would be attended with the greatest embarrassment and difficulty. He contended that when the two committees of the two houses met together, the chairman of the committee of the House, who was myself, had a right to preside. He was about insisting at some length upon that proposition, that the chairman of the committee of the House should preside over both committees when blended together—should be the presiding officer of both. I instantly opposed, however, this plan, and stated that I did not consider this the proper mode, but I thought that the chairman of the committee of each house should preside over his own committee, and when the committee of either branch had adopted a proposition, it should be submitted to the committee of the other branch; and if they also agreed to it, then it should be reported back to the two houses with the recommendation of both committees. That mode was agreed upon, and Mr Holmes, I think it was, from Maine, presided over the committee of the Senate. I—if I could be said to preside at all, when I took a more active part in the chair than I could have well taken out of it; and when, as at this session, I was thought to manifest a desire rather to take too much lead—presided over the committee of the House. I brought forward the proposition which I will read presently, and I appealed to the members of the committee, if I may use the expression. Now, gentlemen, said I, we do not want a proposition carried here by a small majority, thereupon reported to the House and rejected. I am for something practical, something conclusive, something decisive upon the question. How will you vote, Mr. A? How will you vote, Mr. B? How will you vote, Mr. C? I appealed in that way to the gentlemen of the North. To my very great happiness, a sufficient number of them responded affirmatively to my question whether they would vote for this proposition, to enable me to be confident that, if they continued to vote in that way—of which I had not a particle of doubt—in the House we should carry the proposition. Accordingly, that proposition having been agreed upon by both committees, was reported by us to our respective houses, where it was finally adopted, and here it is:

[Mr. C. here commenced reading a resolution but stopped, stating that it was not that to which he referred. He had requested a friend to obtain it for him, and supposed that he had procured it, but there seemed to have been an error. A messenger was in search of the volume containing the resolution, and Mr. Clay proceeded.]

That resolution, I said, was finally adopted. Probably I can state, without reading it what its provisions are. It declares that if there be any provision in the constitution of Missouri incompatible with the constitution of the United States, the State of Missouri shall forbear to enforce that repugnant provision in that constitution, and that she shall, by a solemn and authentic act, declare that she will not enforce any provision in her constitution incompatible with the constitution of the United States; and upon the passage of such a solemn and authentic act, the President of the United States—who was Mr. Munroe at that time—shall make a proclamation of the fact, and thereupon, and without any further legislation of Congress, Missouri shall be admitted in to the Union.

Now, sir, I want to call your attention to this period of our history, and to the transactions during the progress of this discussion in Congress. During the discussions in the House from day to day and from night to night—for they frequently ran into the night—two, who were for admitting Missouri into the Union, said to our brethren from the North, Why, gentlemen, if there be any provision in that constitution of Missouri which is repugnant to the constitution of the United States, it is a nullity. The constitution of the United States, by virtue of its own operation, vindicates itself.—There is not a tribunal upon earth, if the question should be brought before them, but would pronounce the constitution of the United States paramount, and must pronounce as invalid any repugnant provision in the constitution of Missouri. Sir, that argument was turned and twisted, and used in every possible variety of form; but all was in vain. An inflexible majority stuck out to the last against the admission of Missouri, until the resolution was offered and passed.

Mr. Underwood, at request of Mr. Clay, read the resolution as follows:

Resolution providing for the admission of the State of Missouri into the Union on a certain condition.

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That Missouri shall be admitted into this Union on an equal footing with the original States, in all respects whatever, upon the fundamental condition, that the fourth clause of the twenty-sixth section of the third article of the constitution, submitted on the part of said State to Congress, shall never be construed to authorize the passage of any law, and that no law shall be passed, in conformity thereto, by which any citizen, of either of the States in this Union, shall be excluded from the enjoyment of any of the privileges and immunities to which such citizen is entitled under the constitution of the United States: provided, That the legislature of the said State, by a solemn public act, shall declare the assent of the said State to the said fundamental condition, and shall transmit to the President of the United States, on or before the fourth Monday in November next, an authentic copy of the said act, upon the receipt whereof, the President, by proclamation, shall announce the fact; whereupon, and without any further proceeding on the part of Congress, the admission of the said State into this Union shall be considered as complete.

[Approved March 2, 1821.]

BLISS'S COMPOUND COD LIVER OIL CANDY. For the Cure of Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Tickling in the Throat, and all Lung and Bronchial Affections.

THE WONDERFUL curative powers of Cod Liver Oil, in all cases of Cough, Colds and Consumption, have been clearly demonstrated by the most experienced physicians in Europe and America. Its peculiar virtues are already too well known to need any description here. The nausea and disgust which many people experience in swallowing the Oil in its usual form of administration is entirely obviated by the discovery of the mode of preparing it in the form of a most agreeable Candy, possessing and preserving all the medicinal qualities of the Pure Cod Liver Oil without its nauseous and repulsive taste. The powerful curative principle of this Oil being thus retained, and combined with other healing and harmless ingredients, justly celebrated for their efficacy in the above mentioned complaints, forms one of the most soothing Cough Remedies, and remedial agents for staying the advance of Consumption that has ever been discovered. This Candy needs but a fair trial to convince the skeptical of its excellence. Public speakers and vocalists will find it an excellent article for removing obstructions from the throat and clearing the voice.

CAUTION.

ABOUT four years ago, a boy named William Henry Prichard, came into the employ of A NOYES & CO., for the purpose of learning the trade of a Tinner, and an agreement was made by which he was to remain until he was twenty-one years of age. Having had the benefit of instruction in the trade until about two months since, he left us without occasion on our part. We hereby forbid all persons trusting him on our account, as we shall pay no debts of his contracting; persons employing him will do so at their own risk.—Prichard is about 18 years of age, with black hair, black eyes, and florid complexion.

The Compound Bloodroot Syrup,

IS above and beyond all Patent Medicines, for the Cure of Lung Complaints, and is the only safe Medicine among all the advertised articles of the day.

It is not drugged up with Opium, or any astringent or injurious substance.

For this reason, the Cough will not abate until the proper time, that is until free expectoration has dislodged every thing of an improper nature, from the Lungs. Then will the Cough cease, the appetite return, the fever disappear, the strength be regained, and nature and the healing qualities of the Compound Bloodroot Syrup will perfect the cure. Be not discouraged, if the first few doses do not immediately stop the Cough, increase the fever, and hurry you at an accelerated pace to the grave, as all Medicine must do, which operate solely as an astringent or opiate

Great Cough Remedy!!

CHERRY PECTORAL

For the Cure of

COUGHS COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, ASTHMA, WHOOPING-COUGH AND CONSUMPTION.

This beautiful, agreeable and [illegible] preparation of the WILD CHERRY is now universally acknowledged to be the only efficacious cure for complaints of the Lungs and Throat. In every case the patient is relieved by its use, and in most, if persevered in, is permanently cured

The remedy for which it is prepared has been laid before the Medical Colleges and a large part of the Medical Professors of this country, and they have agreed in according it unlimited praise as the most skillful preparation and the most certain known remedy for diseases of the Lungs and Throat

READ THE FOLLOWING FACTS

Dr Brewster, of Windham Co, Conn, sends us the following testimony —

Dr J C Ayer—Dear Sir —I enclose you a certificate from Mrs Catharine B. Cady, a highly respectable lady of this village, wife of Mr Seth Cady, Deputy Sheriff, Windham, Co Connecticut The cure in her case was very prompt, and has attracted general attention W A BREWSTER, M D

WEST KILLINGLY Ct, Sept 29 1848

This may certify that I was all cured with a very severe cough in the winter of '47 8, which threatened to terminate in Consumption I had tried many medicines in vain, and was cured by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

DIRECT EVIDENCE

Dr J C Ayer, Lowell—Dear Sir —Feeling under obligations to you for the restoration of my health, I send you a report of my case, which you are at liberty to publish for the benefit of others Last autumn I took a bad cold, accompanied by a severe cough, and made use of many medicines without obtaining relief I was obliged to give up business, frequently raised blood and could get no sleep at night A friend gave me a bottle of your Cherry Pectoral the use of which I immediately commenced [illegible] directions I have just purchased the fifth bottle, and am nearly recovered I now sleep well [illegible] ough has ceased and all by the use of your valuable [illegible]

E S STONE, A M Principal Mt Hope Seminary

From Dr Bryant, Druggist and Postmaster, Chicopee Falls, Mass —

Dr J C Ayer—Dear Sir —Enclosed please find remittance for all the Cherry Pectoral last sent me, I can unhesitatingly say that no medicine was ever given such satisfaction as your's does, nor have I ever seen a medicine which burned so many cases of Cough and Lung Complaints Our Physicians are using it extensively in their practice, and with the happiest effects.

Truly yours, D M BRYANT

Dr. Townsend's SARSAPARILLA,

COMPOUND EXTRACT OF

Wonder and Blessing of the Age

THE MOST EXTRAORDINARY MEDICINE IN THE WORLD!

This Extract put up in Quart Bottles—it is six times cheaper than other compounded extracts of the old Sarsaparilla, and is a more powerful purifying and invigorating medicine.

The celebrity and superiority of this Sarsaparilla as a family medicine is, while it remains the most popular one for the Ladies. It is one of the very best as it not only purifies the whole system and renovates the person but it creates new pure and rich blood, and is recommended by medical men and others as possessing the wonderful virtues of the Sarsaparilla, and several of its compounds have been performed within the last five years, more than 10,000 cures, of severe cases of disease, at least 15,000 of which were incurable. It has saved the lives of more than 500 children during the two past seasons.

10,000 CASES OF GENERAL DEBILITY AND WEAKNESS OF NERVOUS INVALIDS.

Dr Townsend's Sarsaparilla invigorates the whole system in a manner. To those who have lost their muscular energy by the effects of prolonged or small mercury in youth, or the excessive use of cold or other causes, produced by irregularity, illness, or accident. Nothing can be more surprising than its invigorating effects upon the human frame. Persons all worn down and irritable, from taking it, at once become full and full of energy and entire influence. It strengthens delicately constructed nervous frames of the female, when it is the great cause of their sufferings. It will not be expected of us, in case of so limited a nature, to publish certificates of cures performed, but we can assure the public, that hundreds of cases have been given us by persons who have tried every other remedy without effect, after using few bottles of this invaluable medicine have been blessed with the most decided benefit.

FOR MOTHERS AND MARRIED LADIES

It is a medicine for every family which is extremely pure and efficacious, made up of simple materials. No female who is desirous to support her children should neglect the period (The turn of life) when this medicine is so powerful in its effects, and so necessary for the preservation of her health. Many a female who has suffered for years of the most dreadful nature, and prayed to die—has been restored to health and happiness by the use of this invaluable medicine.

DR. HUNT'S LIMINENT, which has sold well for years, will be found to be the best Liniment for Pain in the Side, Back, Limbs, &c. It never fails. Dr. HUNT'S LIMINENT, which has sold well for years, will be found to be the best Liniment for Pain in the Side, Back, Limbs, &c. It never fails.

Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla or compounds have been given by the most eminent physicians in the United States, and in Europe, and have been used with the most astonishing success in the following complaints:

SPITTING BLOOD, Spitting of Blood, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, Liver Complaint, Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Spitting of Blood, Sore throat, Pain in the Side, Night Sweats, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Piles, Dropsy, Female Complaints, Leucorrhœa, Whites, Gravel, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Debility, Fever and Ague, Jaundice, Dropsy, Scurvy, Erysipelas, Ringworm, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Nettle Rash, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Ulcers, Sores, Scrofula, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Piles, Dropsy, Female Complaints, Leucorrhœa, Whites, Gravel, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Debility, Fever and Ague, Jaundice, Dropsy, Scurvy, Erysipelas, Ringworm, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Nettle Rash, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Ulcers, Sores, Scrofula.

INVIGORATING CORDIAL,

As it renews and invigorates the system, gives activity to the limbs, and strength to the muscular system, it must ever be an invaluable one.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

Cleanse and Strengthen. Consumption is cured by Brown's Compound, Liver Complaint, Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Spitting of Blood, Sore throat, Pain in the Side, Night Sweats, Difficult or profuse expectoration, Pain in the Side, &c. have been cured by this remedy.

SPITTING BLOOD.

New York, April 28, 1847

Dr Townsend—Sir—I feel bound to inform you the three of my children have been cured of Spitting Blood by the use of your Sarsaparilla. They were afflicted very severely with and suffering very much. At last I resorted to your medicine, and was gratified to see the blood stop, and they recover. I have for several years been afflicted with a cough, and spitting of blood, and night sweats, and was greatly reduced, and did not expect to live. I have only used your sarsaparilla a short time, and there is a wonderful change for the better in me. I am now able to walk all over the city. I raise no blood at all, cough but little now. You can well imagine I am thankful for this result.

Your obedient servant,
WM RUSSELL, 60 Catherine st.

RHEUMATISM

This is only one of upwards of four thousand cases of the most severe Rheumatism, which Townsend's Sarsaparilla has cured. The most severe and chronic cases are weekly rendered to the extraordinary virtues of this Sarsaparilla.

Jan 4 Cummings, Esq. one of the assistants in the Laurel Avenue Hill street Church, at a gentleman spoke to him the following letter:

Blackwell's Island, Sept 14, 1847

Dr Townsend—Dear Sir, I have suffered terribly for years, to the extent that I was incapable of the work I could not cut, shovel or walk. I had the most intense pains, and my limbs were terribly swollen. I have used four bottles of your Sarsaparilla, and they have done me more good than anything I have ever taken. I am so much better—and, I am entirely relieved. You are at liberty to use this for the benefit of the afflicted. Yours respectfully,
JAMES CUMMINGS

FITS! FITS! FITS!

Dr Townsend not having tested his Sarsaparilla for cases of Fits, of course never can recommend it, was surprised to receive the following from his intelligent and respectable Farm in Westchester county

Northam, August 13 1847

Dr Townsend—Dear Sir I have to inform you of a circumstance which has occurred in my family, which I think it my duty to make known to you. My little boy, about two years old, has been afflicted with Fits almost every day for her, but without success, at last, though we could find no remedy, I saw in your circulars for cases like hers, and thought, as she was so very ill, it could do no harm to try it. Her improvement was so rapid, and so decided, that I thought it my duty to continue it, and she is now as well as any child of her age. I shall not hesitate to recommend it to all who are afflicted as above, as the best article I have ever seen.

Most respectfully yours &c.

Old Papers for sale at this office.

Principal Office, 102 Nassau st New York City

OLD DR. JACOB TOWNSEND,

THE ORIGINAL DISCOVERER OF THE

Genuine Townsend Sarsaparilla.

Old Dr Townsend is now about 70 years of age and has long been known as the AUTHOR and DISCOVERER of the GENUINE ORIGINAL JOHN SEARS SARSAPARILLA. Being poor he was compelled to limit his manufacture by which means it has been kept out of market and the sales circumscribed to those only who had proved its worth and known its value. It had reached the ears of many, nevertheless as those persons who had been healed of severe diseases and saved from death, proclaimed its excellence and wonderful

HEALING POWER.

Knowing, many years ago that he had by his skill science and experience devised an article which would be of incalculable advantage to mankind when the means would be furnished to bring it into universal notice which, in his unassumable partiality would be known and appreciated. This time has come the means are supplied this is a manufacture of the large scale and is called for throughout the length and breadth of the land, and is rapidly incapable of deterioration of the manufacture.

Unlike young S P Townsend's improvements with age, are never changes but for the better. It is the purest and in science perfection by a scientific man. The highest knowledge of chemistry and the best skill in the manufacture of the Old Dr Sarsaparilla. The sarsaparilla root is well known as medicinal in many diseases and properties are well known. Some are in favor of one and others which it not used in preparing it, it will produce fermentation and acid which is injurious to the system. None of this proper care of sarsaparilla are not used that the chemistry and manufacture in the preparation of this are not conducted in a scientific process known only to the experienced in the manufacture. Never there are six principles which fly off in every process of fermentation, and the very essential medical properties of the root which give to it all its value.

Any person in doubt or suspicion will find the Genuine Old Dr Jacob Townsend Sarsaparilla put up in a quart bottle, with a wrapper on the cork, and the words "GENUINE OLD DR JACOB TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA" blown in the glass. Any other Sarsaparilla is not the genuine.

This is so prepared that the purest properties of the Sarsaparilla are first extracted by a process of boiling and of fermentation, and the dregs are rejected, then very particular and virtuous secret is put, and a definite acid is added, and the last ingredient of importance is added for lasting any fine valuable properties. Any person in doubt, if it is not the most powerful medicine in the world.

Cure of innumerable diseases.

Hence the reason why we have never obtained more evidence in its favor, which is unknown and can be in the last extremity, such as CONSUMPTION, DYSPEPSIA in a HOPELESS FLIGHT and in BRILLIANT SCROFULA DROPSY CONSTIPATION, CHOLERA INFANTUM, PAINS, NERVOUS DISEASES, HYSTERICS and all of the female complaints.

IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD

It possesses extraordinarily such an extraordinary power in purifying the blood, from the most inveterate taint of long standing, and in the most inveterate cases of long standing, and in the most inveterate cases of long standing, and in the most inveterate cases
